

Ditto Drops

Today you are taking home some very special droplets of glass. They're like little gemstones. When there's a spot in your music that you want to play better, use them to help you keep track of your repeats at the piano.

'Ditto' means 'the same thing again.'

CHOKING HAZARD: These glass drops are small and should be kept out of the reach of small children.

Ditto Drops keep practicing fun! Here's how:

- Line up your gems on the piano. When you notice a mistake:
- Decide where you will start and stop. Hint: keep it short.
- Identify your goal, like, "I want to fix the fingering on the eighth notes."
- Each time you successfully play the short section, move one marker over. Move them one at a time with each repeat until they have all been moved.
- For a bigger challenge: move one back to the start if you make a mistake.
- You are finished that spot of practice today once they are all moved.

Ditto Drops

Today you are taking home some very special droplets of glass. They're like little gemstones. When there's a spot in your music that you want to play better, use them to help you keep track of your repeats at the piano.

'Ditto' means 'the same thing again.'

CHOKING HAZARD: These glass drops are small and should be kept out of the reach of small children.

Ditto Drops keep practicing fun! Here's how:

- Line up your gems on the piano. When you notice a mistake:
- Decide where you will start and stop. Hint: keep it short.
- Identify your goal, like, "I want to fix the fingering on the eighth notes."
- Each time you successfully play the short section, move one marker over. Move them one at a time with each repeat until they have all been moved.
- For a bigger challenge: move one back to the start if you make a mistake.
- You are finished that spot of practice today once they are all moved.