

Heart and Soul teaches Relative Minors

Memorize this Heart and Soul chord progression:

Try transposing Heart and Soul to different places and keys on the piano. When you play it with success, you will:

- Figure out relative major and minor pairs
- Have a simple way of knowing which major and minor keys share the same key signature
- Simplify the learning of scales, because you'll know which two will share the same default key pattern (with different starting notes)

Key of G

Step 1: Play Heart and Soul in the new key by ear, starting with both thumbs on G.

Step 2: Re-play the first two chords, naming them as follows:

Chord I = ___ chord.

Chord vi = ___ minor chord.

These two chords teach a shortcut to knowing which two keys are a relative major–minor pair.

Key of F

Step 1: Play Heart and Soul in the new key by ear, starting with both thumbs on F.

Step 2: Re-play the first two chords, naming them as follows:

Chord I = ___ chord.

Chord vi = ___ minor chord.

These two chords teach a shortcut to knowing which two keys are a relative major–minor pair.

Heart and Soul teaches Relative Minors

Memorize this Heart and Soul chord progression:

Try transposing Heart and Soul to different places and keys on the piano. When you play it with success, you will:

- Figure out relative major and minor pairs
- Have a simple way of knowing which major and minor keys share the same key signature
- Simplify the learning of scales, because you'll know which two will share the same default key pattern (with different starting notes)

Key of ___

Step 1: Play Heart and Soul in the new key by ear, starting with both thumbs on ___.

Step 2: Re-play the first two chords, naming them as follows:

Chord I = ___ chord.

Chord vi = ___ minor chord.

These two chords teach a shortcut to knowing which two keys are a relative major–minor pair.

Key of ___

Step 1: Play Heart and Soul in the new key by ear, starting with both thumbs on ___.

Step 2: Re-play the first two chords, naming them as follows:

Chord I = ___ chord.

Chord vi = ___ minor chord.

These two chords teach a shortcut to knowing which two keys are a relative major–minor pair.